But I find the features very limited. One is you can only run it at night, so there is no music during the day. This is majorly unproductive during a workday. I could listen to any sounds at any time of day, for which we can all say good morning. I also agree with the previous reviewer that Ambientio is not free. It is $1.99. I find it a bit odd how no one has made a truly free Ambientio app yet. I understand the issues with licensing, but in my opinion, it is perfectly acceptable that some apps are expensive. If you want a free app to help you relax, check out FreeHifiPlayer which does the same thing. Awesome By BurnoutShinobiSeptember 29, 2014 I must say that I am an extremely hard to relax so I find these apps pretty helpful to calm my nerves. Recently I used Ambientio, it has a nice collection of sounds, I can't find any annoying or weird sound. They are indeed relaxing (don't worry I'm not making this up, I'm so stressed right now it's not funny) Cool! By Danky_DobRabbitJuly 29, 2014 What a cool app! Such a simple concept and I wish it had been around when I needed it. In all, I would recommend this to anyone looking for a pensive or energizing soundtrack. Although there are other alternatives I think the sounds here are great and at this price point, you can't go wrong. Great work!Q: Trying to get an SSIS Package that requires the user
