Here are some of the gadgets that you can carry with you to spy on someone for hours. It works by using a standard office telephone and microphone to listen in on the conversation, capturing everything that's being said, and sends the recorded information back to the computer via a single Cat 5e/6 cable. The digital recording system can record voice conversations and send them back to the computer for analysis, while a visual display shows the date and time that the recording was made.
