Virtual Audio Cable 4.15 Full .To the extent that there can be said to be a guilty conscience, Dr. Richard M. Dorson's is guilty. In his indignant scholarly way, Dorson had slammed the book as a "howling croak,"

"trick-puff," and "hogwash" -- along with being "grotesque" and "horrible." I offer them here for all his readers. Dr. Dorson, the Professor of Psychiatry at Harvard Medical School, looked "enormously pleased with himself" when he quoted a newspaper interview wherein the reviewer had praised the book's "hanging-grapefruit" approach. In fact, one of the arguments of the book is that grapefruit is the best food for a hangover. The reviewer in question
