I have Aramaic (Syriac) keyboard, and tried to turn on Hebrew keyboard from System Settings but it doesn't work. A: Kendall-Page Hebrew Keyboard Layout Aramaic keyboard layout is supported on W7 64-bit. A few steps for installing on W7 64-bit (instructions are for W7 32-bit) Install Kylix Change the Language Pack from English to Chinese-Simplified (Chinese) Download and install the Language Packs from here Once installed, press Alt + X to access System Settings Go to Region and Language > Additional Settings > Change system language Change the keyboard language from English to Hebrew When you press the "Find input sources" button, install the PC Driver. If you do not, you will get an error that it cannot load the DLL. If you do not have Internet access, search for the DLL in C:\Windows\System32\Drivers\WFPFW.DLL I tested both the keyboard layouts below (one of them has fewer keys). The result is good, with the exception of the numbers. The numbers are missing the
