Improved some links.Q: Selecting SQL Server database from cmd I need to build a batch file which selects and reads the database from a pre-configured table on the server. I have gotten it to select the database, but now I need to set permissions for the user to be able to read the data, and I am not sure where I need to add that. I am using a Windows 7 64 bit machine and connecting via SQL Server Management Studio (64 bit). This is all done with administrator privileges. A: I needed to use a ldf file to allow my user to connect to the database as shown below, and also needed to set the ldf to read/write as well. sqlcmd -S -d -i 3e33713323
