For instance, you can start any editing session with a quick File⇒Open to get back to your project. A lot of Photoshop's many functions are automated, so you press one button and the program immediately starts working on an image, no matter which tool you're using. Q: Angularjs click event not working in chrome I am using angularjs and i am trying to fire a click event when a link is pressed, the problem is that it works fine in firefox but not in chrome. I am not using any directives or plugins. Can anyone provide me with a solution, or even better a reason for this. This is the html that i have: Click And this is the app: var app = angular.module("myApp", []); app.controller("myCtrl", function($scope) { $scope.test = function() { alert("clicked"); }; }); This is what i get in chrome: Chrome gives this error: TypeError: undefined is not a function This is what i get in firefox: Firefox gives this error: TypeError: $(...).click is not a function A: This happens because Chrome checks the checks for the click event to be bound on the document object. The document object however has the method.click, however it is not a function. You can use this workaround: document.querySelector("a.test").addEventListener("click", function(){ alert("clicked"); }); EDIT This seems to be a Chrome issue, and it was closed as Won't Fix. According to the comments, adding it as a Chrome flag fixed the problem. [Posterior fossa arachnoid cyst: MRI follow-up study]. To evaluate the magnetic resonance imaging (MRI) features of arachnoid cyst (AC) of the posterior fossa. The clinical records and MRI of 13 patients of AC of the posterior fossa treated in our hospital between 1991 and 2003 were reviewed. The patients were followed up by cranial MRI. The causative factors, symptoms, and anatomical classification of AC were collected. The size of the AC was measured on T2-weighted MRI or T1-weighted MRI with contrast-enhanced sequences. The data were analyzed by SPSS 10.0 software package. There were 9 males and 4 females with a median age of 21.5 months (range, 9-96 months). The mean observation time was 6.5 years (range, 2-14.5 years). Headache was the most common symptom. Eleven patients were symptomatic and 2 were asymptomatic. The size ranged from 2.7 to 16.5 cm (mean, 8.9 cm). The fusiform shape was the most common presentation. The mean follow-up time was 5.2 years. The recurrence rate was 6.4% (1/16). Eighteen patients had serial MRI. The size of the AC increased gradually in all patients with a mean increase of 1.4 cm (range, 0.1-3.2 cm). The cyst wall was hypointense on T1-weighted images and hyperintense on T2-weighted images. Nine lesions had a thin hypointense rim and 7 had a thicker hypointense rim. Small arachnoid granulations were present in 8 patients. The cerebellum was compressed with a cerebellar tonsil and upward dislocation of the cerebellar vermis in one patient. There were no cyst-related complications, such as increasing or expanding cyst and hydrocephalus. All patients were treated with ventriculo-peritoneal shunt or middle fossa craniotomy. AC of the posterior fossa is mainly fusiform or round with a thin, hypointense rim and a hyperintense cystic part. The cyst may enlarge in the long term with a thin hypointense rim.Sen. Harry Reid (D-Nev.) has a big problem: He's been running all over the country as Harry Reid, and not enough people are paying attention.
