I'd say, they might be first generation PSN accounts, that have somehow been 'activated'. Then, those accounts might be in here, but, the account/PSN name has been replaced with 'Known' account name/PSN name. Should be fine though, as there is 'true' PSN account info here as well. Good post, I tend to visit your blog on a regular basis. This is very helpful info there a lot offse! You really put some time and effort into this situation🔥

It is particularly difficult to impart durable softness and detergent resistance to fabrics during the initial stages of washing. Accordingly, it is a common practice for laundry detergent formulations to contain a variety of fabric conditioners which are capable of softening the treated fabric and imparting resistance to soiling and/or staining by dispersed soils and soils which are deposited in the fabric during the laundering process. Softening and stain resistancy are not the only attributes of high quality fabrics which are desired by consumers. Fabrics which are not only soft and detergent resistant but also wrinkle-resistant, heat-stable and crease-resistant are among the numerous other qualities which make a fabric desirable to consumers. Many of these desirable characteristics are achieved by the use of gums, resins and waxes and by the use of sizing agents which contain a mixture of polymer and/or wax and sizing agent. The most common sizing agents are those referred to as "anionic" sizing agents. Such sizing agents are incorporated into the fabric during its manufacturing process and are referred to as sizing agents or sizing agents which are sizing agents or sizing agents which are "anionic" sizing agents. Anionic sizing agents function to maintain the fabric in a naturally sized condition as opposed to the smaller sized condition which is present in unsoftened fabrics or fabrics which have not been subjected to the added action of anionic sizing agents. Fabric softness and detergent resistance are the two most common attributes of deter
