From Forwards to defensemen, the latest batch from the Fans of the Future, focuses on players who are NHL-ready in their draft year. CHL Roundup In this report we take a look at the top players in the CHL. Players who stand a chance to reach the NHL are in bold. WHL 1, Brady Tkachuk (2006) If he keeps his quiet yet confident approach, the Boston University (NHL Draft) will have some interesting decisions as the NHL moves on to the draft seventh overall. 2, Sam Girard (2006) Girard has continued to display the same character that made him a top defensive defenceman at the NCAA trials last season. He has made the Regina Pats line-up on a consistent basis and seems to be on the same track as fellow selected defenceman, Alex Pietrangelo. In 40 games for the Pats this year, Girard has 14 goals and 28 assists. 3, Alex Killorn (2006) Killorn's exceptional talent was on full display at this year's NHL draft combine, leading to his top-20 selection. He has outstanding work ethic, as well as offensive skills and passing skills. Currently in his final year of junior eligibility, Killorn is a lock for a top-five selection come draft day.
