plane in a flat spin just before disappearing from view, and then plunging into the mountains. The Syrian military described the Israeli plane as an Israeli F-16 fighter-bomber. Israel has not confirmed the plane's identity. A Syrian government statement says the jet crashed near Rastan, with a strike on the Syrian military headquarters at the province of Homs. The statement did not give a death toll from the raid. The Syrian military claims its planes were returning from an attack on the so-called Islamic State in Deir Ezzor. The Israeli military reacted to the Syrian claims by confirming that one of its warplanes had been shot down during a sortie in Syria. A statement said Israeli aircraft struck targets in Syria twice on Monday, destroying two surface-to-air missiles and a ground-to-ground rocket in the process. It added that a Syrian soldier was killed in the shelling of Israeli forces stationed in the Golan Heights. The Israel Defense Forces confirmed that one of its war
