What's new:

DeerlingMon, 01 Oct 2014 15:28:23 +0000New Mafia II content updated GamesFree-to-PlayFiraxis GamesConsoleBethesda Game StudiosMMORPGShooterDeerling

The Mafia II DLC we've mentioned here for free in the past is now available, and for the first time ever, we've got it up for download on Gamersgate. The New Orleans mission pack will add a new hat to one of your characters and upgrades to the security team. You also get a new crummy typewriter, which is worth saving yourself 100,000 life. And the other missions you've probably been waiting for are also available on Steam.

On the same day, Dec. 20, owners of the full game on Steam can also receive the Director's Commentary and two new game modes (Raid Mode & Rogue Mode) to accompany the first two DLC missions. We've already seen the first two Mafia DLC missions and got a good handle on what the new content entails. The "guitar" level is where the game starts off nice and slow, with you just cleaning-up after an otherwise minor incident. Meanwhile, the publisher has updated the Honor system, removing cash and the ability to buy good will and perks. They're upping the ante a notch now, but so be it. It's all good, we just enjoy the yelly/good-natured violence.

And to answer the recurring question about the eventual game, it'll be out in 2015. You can also hang out for more on Mafia II on our (hostile) forums by reading this thread or visiting our review.
