Figure 1: Time-Consuming Period in the Showcase The archetypes of the new RPG are three-dimensional characters as they express their emotions and are developed in accordance with their ability to care for other characters. Therefore, the character development that plays the largest role in the game will be more enjoyable. You will be able to recognize the unique look of each character from the beginning and improve the design of the characters with your persistent actions in the game. You can freely develop your character, repeatedly creating new avatars by using the unlocking system for new weapons and armor. The class system is more flexible, allowing you to repeatedly unlock any class or completely change your class at any time. Figure 2: The Action The action is based on the series of stages where a variety of combat scenarios appear. The heart of the action scenes is the attack, movement, counterattack, and support for characters that are in the stage as well as the environment in which they are present. You can improve the combat skills of your character by fighting against enemies and other characters with your own strength. Depending on the progress you have made, you can use magical skills as a means of reinforcement. Figure 3: Search, Kill, Carry, and Move to the City of Dawn According to the predetermined quest of the RPG, you will receive an instruction from a character in-game to perform quests at the locations designated for the quests. You will be given information about the location, enemy characters, and other players to determine and carry out your next mission. If the enemy characters have not properly resolved the quest object, it will become a battle. If you have performed the necessary tasks with a correct method, you can collect the necessary items, and the level can be upgraded. You can go to the city of Dawn if you are further developed in the game. Figure 4: Point System Figure 5: System of
