Also added to “HyperMotion Technology” is the “Pro Player Draft,” a feature that was introduced in FIFA 19, and has been updated to provide a new level of authenticity for player evaluation and international scouting. Here are the top 12 additions and tweaks coming to FIFA 22. Player Positioning System (POS) POS, also called X-Aware, is a tracking system that will keep your players in an optimal position on the pitch. Players can be moved into their optimal position as a default setting, but you can also choose to manually adjust the positioning of individual players to more closely match the team you're preparing for, or more importantly, your style of play. Two options are available to enable or disable the POS, and to adjust the weighting of the 'incorrect' positioning relative to how you'd like your player to move: - In-game Setting - Choose from 'default' or 'manual'. Using the latter will enable you to manually position your players. - Stand-Alone Settings - A Guide To Positions - Set the default position for your players (default is midfielder), a relative weight (the weighting of the non-optimal positioning relative to the optimal positioning), the strength of influence on positioning, the range of influence, and the weighting of misplaced positioning if it is negative. > Note: The 'strength of influence on positioning' and 'weighting of misplaced positioning if it is negative' settings are a new feature. This guide will show you how to setup your player positions. 1. How to set up the 'default' POS To setup default positions for each of your players, start a new FIFA 22 career. Then go to the in-game menu, go to 'training' and click on 'player positions'. The following settings for default positions are available (there is no need to adjust the settings when players are already set up): - Set position - Automatic, Manual, Default - Set influence - Non-Optimal, Optimal (unless you prefer weighting further), Default - Positional weighting - None, 0, >0 (FIFA 17) - Precision - Very High/Medium/Low/Very Low 2. How to set up manual POS To enable POS, go to the
