Requirements: VV Install Maker can be installed and used in Windows 2000/XP/Vista. Is there anyway to stop it from asking i want to confirm everytime i delete a file/folder? And even more, that it doesn't put the confirm message at the bottom of the file or folder list? Click to expand...
I find this program to be an extremely great helper, I have used it to a lot of my tasks. Honestly, I'd rather go through all the files in my PC with it, all the way to the end and choose to delete a file/folder and not have that annoying window come up asking if I want to keep it or not. I like the program, it's truly dependable. I remember being at school one day and I wanted to download some files for my assignment, but there was only one internet connection available. So I went to use that connection to download the files, but it was an all out battle for over 5 minutes because of stupid hamster who got onto the connection and randomly deleted all files! Well, if the computer was not mine I would have gone to the forum to look for people who could possibly help me, but the computer was mine. I did
