US officials on Thursday said that a unilateral regime change in Iran's nuclear capability could happen before the end of President Barack Obama's term in office. "I don't think we will be able to set back the Iranians on the pace of their nuclear program for many years," said Victoria Nuland, assistant secretary of state for European and Eurasian affairs, speaking at the Aspen Security Forum. Nuland acknowledged that she had often given the public the impression that she was confident that sanctions had pushed the Iranian regime to the negotiating table. "I take it all back," she said, arguing that a combination of sanctions and diplomatic pressure has forced Iran to the table. "At this point, I don't believe that there is any circumstance in which we would pursue some kind of military strike against Iran," she said. Both of these explanations seemed at odds with the position

The problem is I can't download anything because I have to input authentication. My goal is to have my entire page download automatically (without authentication). Is there a way to do this? I feel like I might need to use javascript but I'm not sure. Here's a link to what I'm talking about: A: The way I was able to do this was through the use of a hidden iframe. By setting the destination URL of the iframe to a PHP file that had the code to download the other files, I was able to have the entire page download. Facilitate a healthy place to live: information needs of a lesbian congregation. This qualitative study used community-based participatory research to identify the information needs of the Lesbian Congregation of Greater Des Moines. Six focus groups were convened; 23 participants volunteered. They articulated needs for basic and essential information: education on lesbian, gay, bisexual, and transgender (LGBT) health and sexual and reproductive health; caring relationship to others; and inclusive social and spiritual environment. Participants indicated that the most immediate need was information that would positively affect their own lives and the lives of lesbians and gays everywhere.Q: How do I code a good error message in my javascript code? I am writing some code that is generating XML files for my project. I have read about encoding the text inside of a javascript object so that I can have the ""replace()" function for my object and so that my object will not give me errors when I try to use replace() on the object.
