Explore massive procedurally-generated temples with up to 20 live phantoms. Your goal is to claim the legendary relics of the gods. Maneuver through the maze of traps and moving platforms that guard the secrets and loot that lie at the bottom of each temple. Each run through the temple is a separate clock that starts at the very beginning of each platform. Fail fast. Run fast. The more dangerous the platform, the more rewards there will be. Key Features: HUGE ass end big procedurally-generated temples with up to 20 simultaneous live phantoms. Live phantoms are procedurally generated every run by other players that have failed that temple on your server. Look at them, learn from their mistakes, and try to avoid them. Discover unique dungeons through a branching path system that is crafted by other players. Explore a central hub that provides all of the information and tools you need to succeed. Easy to pick up and play, with the complexity of a real-time strategy game. Achieve amazing accomplishments by sharing your triumphs with your friends on Steam. - Experience a game unlike anything else on Steam. In addition to being the first huge procedurally-generated game on the platform, Phantom Abyss will also be the first multiplayer game to allow multiple players to explore a single procedurally-generated world together. Phantom Abyss is an asynchronous multiplayer game, which means you will not be disconnected when a player fails a run. When another player attempts to enter a temple that you failed at, you can see them fall as they make a failed attempt of their own. Use this knowledge to your advantage, learn from their mistakes, and claim their stolen whips! Learn from the Mistakes of Others On the PTR, we've implemented a feature that allows players to see the failed runs from other players through Steam friends. Run one of your failed attempts to a temple and look at their stats to see how they died and how you can do better. This feature is currently unlocked for those who have friends on the game, and will be released for all players in the final version. Be sure to share this with your friends so they can see the best and worst of each other while you earn the rewards you deserve! Unlock the Temple: As you traverse each temple, you will unlock more difficult runs. As you progress to higher difficulty levels, the number of players that can share your key with their phantoms increases as well. Deep Replayability Your

Features Key:

- Realistic physics based objects:- Fully destructible.- Full visual damage.- 10 starting space ship parts, which can be saved and loaded at any time.- Blue to red gradation of spaceship parts; for different damage.- Take special care in repairing a particular damaged spaceship part because, if this is repaired in one level, it won't be possible to repair it in the next level.
- 2 modes for local and online multiplayer:
  - Local: 2 to 8 players can play, each with a keyboard/mouse connection.
  - Online: Players can play up to 100,000 people from countries all over the world.
- Classic 1966 Easter egg:- Great as a nod to the original game, this option will-give control of the astronaut character to the computer to keep you from getting bored.- Brings the full screen back to the game, instead of playing on a smaller mode.
- Can be used with a Multiplayer Controller, Keyboard and Mouse

  This is just a "demo" of the game.- It won't have much stuff. There are more features than I currently can show-in this version.

What happens:

There is a nice bonus for whoever buys this demo:

- Successfully complete a level, and you will get to play with everyone else that owns this game demo

- That's right you get to play and see your spaceship sail through even more levels of destruction in all "classic game style".

There are two end game goals in this version:

- "Level complete" after beating a level completely, you will get the following reward, and be able to play the next level without returning to your home screen first. It will always be your next space ship to test with; you never have to worry about destroying your home.
- "Alien kill" complete a level by collecting 10 or more solar flares from unidentified space objects, then hunting them down and exploding them in space.

: Fan Classics App Detail » Red Tractor Tycoon - Fan Classics App Ratings User Reviews  Be careful if you have low monthly / yearly internet plan . It has either gone or disappeared for the moment, but the Red Tractor Tycoon post-apocalyptic city-building business model was one of the best games for me of my mobile gaming lifetime. I played this on my 2005 first-gen iPhone and when I go to listen to tunes, there's NEVER any music so I quickly tap on the speaker icon to check the battery. It lasts a while even when not in use. So I'm listening to the first song of the album when I have a pretty good idea of how many hours of phone time I have left, but I'm completely immersed in the game and can no longer verify the battery life until I look at my phone's clock. However, I'm at a full 100%. I'm about to tap out and try to figure out how to shut down the game, resume it at a later time, but then, as I'm about to go back and listen to the last song, I have a bone-crunching electric jolt. This has happened a few times, and every time, I end up standing and looking around the room with, "So, I keep forgetting I'm plugged into the wall." So this time, I figured out I'd better go grab my phone right away (several minutes before the battery was expected to die) and see if I could figure out what had happened. Obviously, the game's been hacked. It's still up on the App Store! Several hours later, I called Apple. They told me if I wanted, I could download a bill of rights and tell them who they could contact if they want to blow the whistle on other people hacking their users' devices. Annoying prank. I wrote them back that I didn't mean to imply Apple would do anything about it, and the person I spoke to was mystified as to why a device wouldn't drop offline and just go dead. I told them I'm quite sure it's been hacked. I'm not mad at Apple. Not at all. I suspect this is a case of the company getting too big for their britches. They probably don't know how to react to something like this any more than they know how to react to breaking news. They'll do something and
