In these days, apparatuses such as television receivers, digital cameras, and the like have come to be provided with a display which can display images at a level of details in a high quality. In conventional apparatuses, with a view to obtaining a high quality image display and also keeping down its power consumption, the optimum method has been adopted in which an image signal to be input to the display is subjected to a filtering process or the like before being sent therefrom. However, in the conventional display control apparatus, if the filtering process is effected by using fixed parameters, it is impossible to display the optimum image, though it is possible to obtain a high quality image display and to keep down the power consumption. On the other hand, if the filtering process is effected by using variable parameters, there are cases where it is impossible to obtain a high quality image display or to keep down the power consumption. There is known a display control apparatus which determines as to whether to subject a video signal to a filtering process or not, based on a processing time of the filtering process (see Japanese Patent Application Laid-Open No. Hei 9-99919, Paragraph 0009). However in the display control apparatus, if an image of a moving picture is to be displayed, the processing of the filtering process is not started unless the input video signal is subject to the filtering process. This leaves a problem that it is impossible to display the optimum image.Q: How to calculate the time of job finish for my app? I use a timeout for my app but i need to calculate the time since i
