Plant microRNAs (miRNAs) are small, endogenous non-coding RNAs that participate in many regulatory biological processes. However, the knowledge of miRNA-like RNAs in rice (Oryza sativa L.), a major cereal crop, remains limited. To expand the knowledge of miRNA-like RNAs in rice, we performed sRNA profile analyses in rice using Illumina and SOLiD sequencing platforms and developed a computational pipeline to identify miRNA-like RNAs. A total of 112.8 M reads from the Illumina platform and 6.3 M reads from the SOLiD platform were generated. The raw reads were preprocessed and analyzed for the discovery of mRNAs and miRNAs. A set of miRNA-like RNAs was then identified from the preprocessed reads using a computational pipeline. Among the identified miRNA-like RNAs, there were 65 conserved miRNAs, 14 rice-specific miRNAs, 6 rice-specific miRNA families and 5 novel miRNAs. This was the first study to identify and analyze miRNA-like RNAs in rice. The study provides a comprehensive and systematic pipeline to identify and annotate miRNA-like RNAs from next generation sequencing data, which can be used as a reference for further discovery of miRNA-like RNAs in rice and other plants.using System; using System.IO; using System.Linq; using System.Text; using System.Threading.Tasks; namespace PnP.PowerShell.Commands { public class ProcessCommand : IProcessCommand { public string[] GetArgs()
