Whenever I open a modal dialog using the Bootstrap Javascript (I'm including Bootstrap.js), the modal has no height at all. It just shows the height of the header tag on my webpage, which is roughly 400px. Then, after I scroll down to the bottom of the page and release the mouse button, the scrollbar appears, even though there is no content (the modal div) to be scrolled! How do I fix this? A: Check this question. you need to specify a max-height property or it will not show the modal. Q: CSS not rendering on my localhost It seems that I am missing a DTD or something very basic. I have looked over this site thoroughly and I still can't see what I am doing wrong. My problem is that it won't print out the formatting to the webpage. When I open up my browser and hit the file, the page with the code shows up but the formatting goes out of the page. Any help would be greatly appreciated. Link to the current page A: you haven't specified a doctype. and in your stylesheet you're doing: *body { background-color: #fff; margin:0; padding:0; font-family: 'Arial Black', serif; } so your style is being applied to the body, as the page has no doctype, so you'll need to add in a doctype. Nicotine stimulates GnRH-II release from the hypothalamus of pubertal and adult female rats. Although nicotine is a recognized neurostimulator of gonadotropin secretion, it is still unclear whether this stimulatory effect is exerted at the level of the
