Photoshop Basics 1. To create images, the first step is to open the Photoshop program. Click the File Open. It opens the Open dialog box (see Figure 2-1). 2. Click the Files of Type drop-down list to select the file type you want to open. 3. Click the More Options button to see the various file types. In the Types of Files section, select JPEG 2000, TIFF or Photoshop GIF. 4. From the Folders of Origin list, you can click Browse to choose the folder you want to work in. 5. Type a name in the File Name text box. 6. Click the Open button. The image opens in Photoshop. 7. From the Windows Start Bar menu, you can click File Save. If you want to save the image in a file type other than the default, click the File Format drop-down list and select the type you want. 8. Click the File Save As. 9. In the Save dialog box, type a name for your image in the File Name text box. 10. Click the Save button. Figure 2-1: Pick the type of image you want to create from this dialog box. Creating a Photo Composite Using Photoshop Photoshop lets you build a photo composite. A composite is an image that's made up of two or more photos. You can combine a photo with a drawing, illustration, text, or any other element. You can use any background that doesn't cover up the main photo, which helps add to the impact of the photo. For instance, you can use a decorative frame, a pattern, a background wall or something similar. If you place the photo on a black background, the composite will appear very shiny and smooth with no matte or gradation. To create a photo composite, follow these steps: 1. Open the image you want to use and save it to your computer. 2. Open Photoshop and select File Open. In the Open dialog box, select Open from the Files of Type drop-down list

To convert RAW images to JPG, Photoshop Elements uses a single green button. RAW files are made by most digital cameras and are the native format that the camera takes photos in. The RAW file format is a computer file format that stores uncompressed digital images in the form in which they are captured by a digital camera. Computer applications can unpack and re-pack RAW images, making them usable on a computer. The only thing to change or swap in RAW image files is the extension. This will change them from a.nef file extension to a.psd extension. If you have a RAW conversion tool for Photoshop, the Extensions have to be done. First, click on the three-bar icon on the top right corner to access the Extensions menu. Choose "Create a New Image" from there. The interface will be simple. Once you click on Create a new image, you will see a new window. Click on the "+" sign and scroll down to select RAW. After selecting RAW, click on the drop down menu and select Photoshop Elements. You will then see a new window pop up. Now, you can choose the file path and select "Open". To convert RAW images to JPG, Photoshop Elements uses a single green button. Once the RAW image is open in the main window, you can either save the image out as JPG by clicking on the green Convert to JPEG button, or you can open RAW files in Photoshop Elements and use Edit > Convert to JPEG to convert the RAW image to JPG. To convert a RAW image to JPG on Mac, you can use this free software called JPEG Suite Pro. Download JPEG Suite Pro here. Click on the green plus sign and scroll down to select RAW. To convert RAW images to JPG, Photoshop Elements uses a single green button. Once the RAW image is open in the main window, you can either save the image out as JPG by clicking on the green Convert to JPEG button, or you can open RAW files in Photoshop Elements and use Edit > Convert to JPEG to convert the RAW image to JPG. This tool allows you to batch convert RAW images to JPG. As mentioned, you need to download the free RAW Converter app on your Mac. To convert RAW images to JPG on Windows, you can use 05a79cecff

Q: Showing $\overline{\mathbb{Q}}$ is not complete I have to show, that $\overline{\mathbb{Q}}$ is not complete. Let K_1 and K_2 be complete fields and let $\pi \in K_1$ be a Cauchy-sequence. Then (π) has a K_2 -limit $\lambda \in K_2$ which we know to be the same as the K_2 -limit of π . Then we know that for any $\epsilon > 0$ there is an $n \in \mathbb{N}$ so that $|\pi - \lambda| < \epsilon$. Field of the Invention The present invention relates to a method of forming a semiconductor device, and more particularly to a method of forming a metal-oxide-semiconductor (MOS) capacitor in a

Søfikøya Søfikøya (from Old Norse søfugih) is an island in the city of Bergen, Norway. The island is home to Søfridust, Bergen's oldest museum, and the famous Bergenhus Festning. History In 788, Birger Jarl of Norway built a fortified island to defend the entrance to Bergen's harbour. Birger had asked for help from Sweyn Forkbeard, the Viking King of Denmark, who sent Gunnar, his son-in-law. Gunnar constructed the fortress of Sokk on the island, and later Søfridust. It was the first fortified stronghold in Scandinavia. In the Norse conquest of the island, Søfikøya, a few years later, was the only fortress that held out against the Danes, and was able to be held by the Norwegian defenders until the arrival of reinforcements and the third siege of the city. After the Norse conquest of Northern Norway, the defence of Søfikøya played a key role in defending the entrance to the harbour. In 872, during the reign of Harald Fairhair, the fortress was attacked by the Geats in the "Helvetic invasion" of Norway. They were repelled by Birger's son Håkon the Blind, who was his uncle. After this attack Søfikøya was reinforced and became a strategic fortress in the struggle to maintain power between the kings of the Norwegian nations. As time went on the fortress shrank in size and importance, and was merged into the Bergenhus Festning which took its name from it. The island fortress was eventually destroyed during the French bombardments during the Napoleonic Wars. Today, the ruins of Søfikøya exist in the form of the Årstad Fortress and the nearby Helle Islands. Part of the fortress was used as a factory for production of sulphur to be used for fireworks. The old facility was expanded into one of the largest steel plant in the Nordland region, Industrigata 12, with a production of ten million tonnes of crude sulphur annually. The plant was closed in the years 1993-1994. The plant was closed after it was bought by a larger German entity. Søfikøya Museum The present museum was opened in 1912 on the island. It was established by
