Delaware's Class of 2019 has stepped into the spotlight, four months before they are officially declared. But there's still plenty of excitement in the air for football fans. In no particular order, here's a look at each of the players projected to play key roles for the Blue Hens this fall.

Quarterback If the Blue Hens have a quarterback controversy, it isn't going to be a long-term one. The coaching staff and players have had a chance to get to know each other this summer. Chris Coyer is an accurate thrower with good mobility and some ability to extend plays with his legs.

Defensive line All of a sudden after losing a ton of talent there are question marks along the defensive line. Depth is the biggest concern. With losses like these, it's hard to find new starters on the defensive line. Jamie Green, Joshua McNary, David Hicks, Channon McPherson, Dylan Collins, Joe Capra and Clay Rhodes should provide some depth there. The big question here is whether they can produce. Chris Lindstrom, Frank Sicari and Jacob Gengenbach lead the way as returning starters in this unit.

Linebacker Jake Conroy and Joe Hornacek are both locks. Conroy is projected as the nickel linebacker and Hornacek as the strongside inside linebacker. Tackles including Jared Cheney, Andy Beck, Calvin Bassett and Kyle Roberts will work to fill out that rotation. The least likely of the bunch to make a big splash is Markell Jones, who could use more time to recover from an injury and an offseason weight gain.

Secondary All four starters should return. The biggest question mark in this group is at cornerback where Wesley Chambers struggled as a freshman. Safety Ryan Fisetta has been plagued by injury concerns, though he should be able to return to form. It would be nice to have a look at Braxton Blake again in this unit. He made a name for himself as a sophomore at tight end. Special teams The punt return team should be a strength. Qadree Ollison and Alex Mallory should be waiting in the wings. His father is former NFL wide receiver Ted Ollison
