do you want to be more productive? how about increasing your performance? or just want to make the application perform, loading fast? get the performance profiler instrument to analyze your application's performance with a few clicks. you can get the performance profiler instrument from 'uxtheme multi-patcher' patches too. if you need to see your applications memory usage, the first two methods will not work for you because the uxtheme.dll files have a seh exception handler and your patch bytes will not be executed if you do patching with those methods. but using this method, you can get the original bytes and whatever you do to the bytes, your application's code will get patched to. however you can't patch your byte array with this method because it's not an overlay data, it's an executable section header data. profiler can be used to determine the amount of resources being used by a particular process or thread. depending on the information provided by the user, the program can run accurately and quickly, dynamically visualize the memory flows in real time, and provide optimized patterns in a short amount of time. on top of this, the memory structure and its consumption can be traced easily in real time to determine whether your application has some memory leaks or to identify and analyze the sources of memory problems. if you want to know how is the proformative status and you need the status report fast and accurate, then this software is the right one for you. it can also be very useful when you need to visualize the memory structure and usage in real-time to determine whether there are memory leaks or not.
