This is not a joke its the real deal! My Apple iPhone X had the same prob, I followed the steps in this post: <https://www.pcmag.com/article2/0,2817,2469914,00.asp> . #touchjams I wish I could give you more information, but the message from the iPhone is anonymous, no way to trace who sent it to us. I can assure you that, in fact, TouchJams has no way of knowing who is behind the account and therefore cannot comment on the legitimacy of the above complaint. We do hope someone here can help you. We have had lots of fun with our TouchJams. In no time our friends and customers have started describing it as our 7th kid. We enjoy talking to customers and hearing the positive comments about the TouchJams by our customers. Check back for more info and demonstrations as we continue the product testing process and add more features to the application. First, download and install the touchjams.zip or touchjams.1pkg. Then install the touchjams.1pkg on your server. To start TouchJams simply enter touchjams in your server's web browser and you will be presented with a list of the available jukeboxes. The default URL is [http://\[servername\]:8888/jukebox](http://[servername]:8888/jukebox). Get your server and TouchJams up and running quickly and easily. After you create an account, you will be ready to register the jukeboxes as you move them about the office. Once they are registered, the jukeboxes will be able to connect to the network as [http://\[servername\]:8888/jukebox](http://[servername]:8888/jukebox). It is important to remember to change the IP address that is being used to connect to the TouchJams if you want the jukeboxes to remain accessible to visitors. Your server must be able to connect to the network. It must be able to get to the TouchJams IP address and DNS. In other words, your server must be a domain controller for your network. If your users use Windows, we recommend that you install NDS server as your network domain controller.
