Q: What is the difference between beforeListInsert() and beforeListItemInsert()? It seems that there is no difference between these two methods. When I created a simple data provider and configured the filter and used the beforeListInsert() method, it duplicated every 10th item in the list. What is the difference between these two methods? A: The beforeListInsert is called before the Item gets inserted to List. Because of this, beforeListItemInsert is called before the Item is inserted in a specific List which is not suitable for insert. Use beforeListItemInsert for inserting the Item in a List. Hope it will help you.. A: The difference is that beforeListItemInsert() is called when you insert an item into a list, and beforeListInsert() is called to get all the items in the list that will be affected by the inserted item. E.g. If you insert into a list a name, and you have a filter that should affect the name, you should use beforeListInsert(). Otherwise you will get the filtered version of the name, duplicating. If the filter did not affect the name, the beforeListInsert() will get the filtered version of the name, the beforeListItemInsert() will get the final name. A: In general, beforeListInsert() is invoked when an item is inserted into the list, and beforeListItemInsert() is invoked when a single item is inserted into a List. In our case, we are using Content Builder, to which we need to add the List item, and for that, we need to use beforeListInsert() first. You can get detailed information from the link: Q: How to dynamically get all records in the table? I have some Ajax
