Users of all versions push or pull images to or from the XD website. To start, you tap on the Share for Review button in the top toolbar. In the "Choose Upload Folder" section, choose where you want to upload new files. For ease of access when uploading or downloading files, I highly recommend selecting a new folder inside the Files section of your documents folder. Next, fill in any project information and Style. If you already have a style, select it. In the popup, choose the path to your local copy of Style's XML file. Once your fill-in is complete, click "Upload files". After that, you'll have to register for an adobe.com account to access the XD service. If you need help with that, here's where that's documented . Next, create any number of folders and keep them handy to make it easy to find your existing files and the ones you upload so they aren't lost.
